Dear Friends:

The people in Boulder and Broomfield counties have a real appetite for preventive work. We know that early interventions (like giving kids 0-5 the best start) cost less and have a greater long-term impact. By continuing to focus on basic building blocks like early childhood, housing and resilience, Foothills United Way guarantees that our community invests significantly in preventive work in addition to the necessary work of helping people who already face challenges.

Thanks to you, we are thrilled to be able to report that your contributions this past year made it possible to fund innovative programs that reached a record number of children. Our Dream Big collaborative, a coordinated effort involving more than 9 partner organizations, is drawing together proven practices and delivering a unique combination of services that may be setting an example for the rest of the country.

Focusing on core issues and working on those issues in partnership isn’t just a winning formula to create better outcomes in people’s lives, it also makes sense from a financial standpoint.

While there’s no decrease in the high demand for services, we believe that our community may have reached a peak of the sustainable number of service providers. Part of our role at Foothills United Way is to help organizations enter partnerships that make sense, which leverage community assets in a coordinated way so that more services can be delivered per contributor dollar.

If you agree that we need to work together to make our communities better, we encourage you to adopt our LIVE UNITED philosophy! The investments Foothills United Way is making in our community provide a powerful incentive that draws organizations together to work as a team on the biggest issues. A great community takes all of us working together. Thank you for your support in this critical role!

Sincerely,

Carlos Pacheco

Foothills United Way
Serving Boulder and Broomfield Counties

At Foothills United Way, we are leading the change to bring collaborative programming to Boulder and Broomfield counties. We bring together thought leaders and organizations across our community who provide the passion, expertise, and resources needed to get things done. We create the newest and most innovative solutions for our community based on proven and accountable research. Our core focus areas are dedicated to long term achievement within early childhood success, attainable housing, and community resilience.

Vision

A community working together in which all people can achieve their full potential.

Mission

Collaboratively:
- Identify community priority needs and desired outcomes;
- Unite community resources in pursuit of agreed-upon goals; and
- Take action.
The Future is Collaborative

Foothills United Way’s re-envisioned grant-making process, reflects the organizational shift to a focus on not just resources, but also relationships. Our grants are focused in three specific priority areas:

Attainable Housing
Supporting regional efforts to secure adequate and stable, affordable housing.

Early Childhood Success
Strengthening families for early childhood success.

Community Resilience
Optimizing community networks with an emphasis on community engagement and resilience.

Impact Initiative Grants by Focus Area

- Early Childhood Success: 37%
- Housing: 13%
- Resilience: 50%
The Early Childhood Council of Boulder County (ECCBC)* partners with more than 30 county-wide programs and services that impact the four domains of early childhood (early learning, family support/parent education and health and mental health) to expand and improve the comprehensive early childhood system for families in Boulder County.

The Bright EYES Coalition is composed of multiple Early Childhood partners in the Longmont/St Vrain Valley School District area, oversees an array of activities that are directed at supporting early childhood professionals and reaching families with young children with the information, resources and services they need to be the best possible parents and first teachers.

Truancy Improvement Project (TIP) works to reduce the use of detention, better identify and match services to truant youth and family needs, create better opportunities to share information about truant youth and understand their needs. Addressing the underlying needs of truancy underlying issues causing truancy reduces their likelihood of future juvenile detention and increases their likelihood of graduating, among many other positive outcomes.

Boulder Valley School District Arapahoe Ridge School-based Health Center Collaborative is a comprehensive school-based clinic that brings primary, behavioral and oral health care providers to the school. Services are designed to identify problems early, provide continuity of care and improve academic success by helping the district meet the needs to the whole child.

Broomfield Housing Opportunity Coalition (BHOC) is collaborative initiative working toward expanding and sustaining a broad spectrum of housing opportunities for all those who live, work, worship or play in Broomfield. The group represents diverse Broomfield entities with a common belief in the power of community to address needs and solve problems.

Boulder County ABCD Partnership is a chartered organization whose aim is to support and improve early childhood outcomes by strengthening the developmental screening process in Boulder County. Guiding principles include addressing high-risk populations with a focus on whole child development, local community collaboration, and support of existing programs, all from a family-centered approach.

No Student Hungry Partnership is dedicated to serving populations suffering from food insecurity. By supplying food insecure students and their families with meal ingredients during times when school is not in session, this partnership aims to decrease the cost burden associated with purchasing nutritious food, improve the nutritional status of BVSD students, and help increase awareness of resources for students and their families.

Westlake Middle School Collaborative assesses needs of students not proficient in math and are facing challenges to academic proficiency, and then links services with other community partners to meet the needs of the family such as basic needs, mental health, extra-curricular programming, and other barriers to educational success.

DV/CPS Collaboration & Consultation Team's vision is keeping children in Boulder County safe, providing them with a supportive, nurturing environment, and supporting non-abusing parents who are also victims of domestic violence, helping families affected by violence and trauma become safe, stable and self-sufficient.

SMILES Virtual Dental Home Collaborative is working to increase access to oral health services, provide patients with the opportunity to establish a non-clinic based dental home and contribute to the increased quality of life in our community through the improved oral health of individuals.

Human Services Transportation Collaborative (HSTC) is working toward creating a one-call transportation center in Boulder county, allowing older adults and people with disabilities to access transportation resources needed to maintain independence and well-being.

Mountain Human Services Collaborative* provides a broad range of basic needs services and referrals to other resources in support of vulnerable residents of Boulder County mountain communities.

Dream Big* is a collaborative of Boulder County nonprofits, a local school district, government agencies, businesses, and other community organizations works to ensure all Boulder County youth and their families are provided the academic, social, and emotional resources needed to close the achievement and opportunity gap.

Human Services Alliance works to improve the quality of life in Boulder County by enhancing the competency and collaboration of human service agencies, as well as educating and influencing the public and policy makers on matters that impact the availability and delivery of human services.

Partners Bridging the Digital Divide's* goal is to get all individuals and families in the BVSD footprint online by the end of 2023, focusing on skilling building and access to both digital devices and the internet across three target populations: families on limited income with school-aged, adults for whom English is not their first language, and elderly adults. *
“I went from homeless to homeowner and I’m really proud to say that.”

Personal Investment Enterprise (PIE) and the American Dream

When Bhola and his young family moved from Nepal to the United States, they were staying in the living room of a friend’s home. “It was very challenging to live with four people in someone’s living room. Eventually we were asked to move out and found ourselves homeless.” Bhola was introduced to the PIE program and he began saving for a down payment on a new home. “It’s incredibly hard to live paycheck to paycheck and save at the same time. You never know what is going to happen, maybe your car will break down, you never know. But I was determined, I wanted a house to raise my family in.” The PIE program requires participants to attend courses in saving and financial strategy, allowing participants to continue saving after the program and achieve financial stability. “One of the happiest moments of my life was telling people that my family no longer needed public assistance.” Having a home and the financial security has given Bhola time to focus on his personal goals and family. “The PIE program is playing a part of the American dream. It may look small but it’s a big deal, we have a place to live now. Programs like PIE are not just helping one person, they are helping entire families.” In the future, Bhola hopes to sit on the board of a local nonprofit so he can continue giving back to the community. A last word of wisdom from Bhola: “If you put your mind to it, you can do it.”
Corporations Giving Back
Foothills United Way had an awesome time in December with VOLTAGE Advertising and Design making PB&J for the Refuge Cafe! The Refuge is a day shelter that provides daytime services for those in need. VOLTAGE Advertising and Design hosted a kit build volunteer project that provided grab and go lunches for families in Broomfield! Thank you volunteers!

Building Community, One Leader at a Time
Cheri, a participant in the Family Leadership Training Institute program, who also works in the medical field identified getting people exercising and connecting to their health as her personal passion project. Over the course of the FLTI training, she developed “Walk to Connect”, a meetup group that kicks off with a 20 minute educational talk about health and nutrition, followed by a three mile walk. The walk is open to everyone and, beyond encouraging healthy habits, has connected neighbors and other community members. She credits the FLTI class with helping her develop new resources, as well as helping her connect with her community in a new way and growing as an individual.

The Power of Connecting
One Thursday afternoon, as she prepared to go to the CircleTalk group, a 91-year-old group member fell in her apartment and cut her arm. With her arm bleeding, she came to the group to ask for help. Several group members bandaged her bleeding arm. Another group member visited the woman who fell the next day to check and rebandage the wound, and continued to visit regularly to check in. Both women report they are developing a friendship they hope will continue beyond the group’s completion exemplifying the meaningful connections that group members create through CircleTalk.

Resilience Summit
Our Resilience Summit on October 4th attracted 70 participants. The audience spent time discussing resilience and their roles in building resilience around Boulder County; learning from local experts about resource access and communication strategies for vulnerable populations; and workshops cultural expectations and ways to reassess how we approach and work with one another across divides.

I Love the Day of Caring - my oldest Day of Caring T-shirt is yellow, from 2007. I have the entire collection since then, each one representing a day of comradery and service to my community. I still have the 2013 shirt too, a reminder of the massive diversion of our attention to the flood. Both Foothills United Way and my employer, Lexmark, have helped me to expand my contributions in a way that use my skills and interests to help others. I especially like to take photographs and make videos that show the fun part of the work. Written by: Richard Engelmann

Volunteerism is a way of life at Premier Members Credit Union (PMCU). It’s embedded into the framework of what makes us Premier. We are committed to bettering our community.

We were inspired by our participation in Day of Caring to approach Foothills United Way to help us arrange monthly service projects. We had a vision of having as much employee participation every month of the year as we have for Day of Caring. FHUW makes it so easy for us to put together meaningful projects that help our communities where they need us most, and we have seen employee engagement skyrocket. We have roughly 10-15 employees participate monthly in our service projects, and our numbers for Day of Caring have doubled.

I am inspired to volunteer by all the non-profits in our communities—the staff that dedicates their hours to helping others in need, and the individuals with incredible back stories who receive their services. I am truly humbled to have founded and to continue to lead the giving efforts of Premier Members Credit Union, providing our employees and support to contribute to what is just a small fraction of the graciousness of our non-profit community. Foothills United Way has decades of experience working with local companies to develop strategies to further their impact goals in the community. In 2018, we expanded our Corporate Engagement Program to further assist companies in engaging with their community.
The PIE Program alleviated a lot of stress and anxiety regarding the cost of higher education. Because PIE funds paid for a semester of college, I was able to use our money to cover childcare expenses and basic necessities without worrying about how we would put food on the table. Thank you so much for your generosity!” - PIE Education Participant

Personal Investment Enterprise Program (PIE)

PIE is a financial empowerment program providing education and access to opportunities for participants to reach their program goals. The program supports families and individuals as they become more active members of the community through first-time home ownership, education, or business development.

Participant Outcomes

- 85% of participants successfully complete the program
- Over 311 program graduates and 21 graduates in 2018
- 125 participants have purchased a home
- 110 have pursued post-secondary education
- 76 have developed a new business

One Year Later

- 69% of participants say saving is a new habit
- 92% of participants plan to continue saving
- 35% of participants saw an increase in income
- 97% of participants have future saving goals

Better Together

Preparing for all of life's ups and downs is a crucial part of resilience. Recognizing that one very impactful way to start a resilience conversation is through disaster preparedness, Foothills United Way facilitated four sessions of Better Together for community members around Boulder County. The Better Together workshops are taught in a three-part series that cover existing emergency management processes, how to prepare as an individual, and how to build preparedness into your community. The course teaches individuals how to assess and increase their own preparedness through group activities, discussions, and guest speakers to lead participants from introductory knowledge to community expert.

EPIC Book Drive

Foothills United Way, in partnership with Executives Partnering to Invest in Children, coordinated the largest book drive in Boulder and Broomfield counties, the Colorado Business Reads Book Drive! In 2018:

Books collected: 8,869
Businesses: 80
Nonprofits supported: 17

Resilience for All

Is a community-led initiative creating a network of Cultural Brokers who build bridges between nonprofit and government entities and underserved Boulder County residents.

Foothills United Way is working with the community to:

- Spark a cultural shift that will recognize the value of Cultural Brokers and support the network;
- Foster the leadership of Cultural Brokers with a series of trainings and incentives for them to be able to serve their communities;
- Empower Cultural Brokers to represent community needs; and
- Help government agencies and service providers develop culturally competent policies, becoming more diverse and inclusive in their practices.

Imagination Library

Dolly Parton's Imagination Library is a book gifting program that mails free, high-quality books to children from birth until they begin school, no matter their family's income. Foothills United Way works in partnership with The Dollywood Foundation to replicate the program in Boulder and Broomfield Counties.

Rotary Clubs in both Boulder and Broomfield Counties and Zonta Foothills Club of Boulder County have provided funds to help sponsor children enrolled in the program.

131 children currently enrolled.

108,000 books mailed to local children since January 2004.

Success is Achieved Together

“We appreciate the new direction of Foothills United Way, focusing on priorities where there is significant need - and where a major impact can be made and measured.”
- Terry and Noel Hefty, Tocqueville Society Members

Tocqueville

The Foothills United Way Tocqueville Society recognizes local philanthropic leaders who have devoted time, talent, and funds to create long-lasting changes in this community. Foothills United Way’s Tocqueville Society membership has quadrupled since 2014. Our members are philanthropic leaders who contribute $10,000 and more annually, while collectively sharing a passion for making a difference in our community.

This year we take a moment to especially thank Terry and Noel Hefty for hosting our spring Revving Up For The Future event to promote our early childhood initiatives, and to the Tocqueville Chair, Marc Painter.

Foothills Young Leaders

is committed to inspiring and guiding young leaders, so they can be effective change makers within their community. We are dedicated to supporting young leaders across our community so they can fight for what they believe in and make meaningful change. Our vision is a connected group of young leaders in Boulder and Broomfield counties who have the resources to be dedicated citizens of change.

Women United

Is an integral part of Foothills United Way, Women United fights for the health, education, and financial stability of every person in every community. Women United is a diverse, vibrant community, bound together by a sense of belonging to the organization’s mission, and to the local communities called home. This powerful, global, network of women leaders, over 700,000 strong, lives united against our most critical issues.

“We appreciate the new direction of Foothills United Way, focusing on priorities where there is significant need - and where a major impact can be made and measured.”
